Mission Purchases 500 New Warcraft in Addition to the Previously Announced 100 Ships.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.-(A)-A French military mission in this country has purchased 500 new airplanes, in addition to 100 ordered last year.

This was announced tonight by the French embassy, which said the mission has now completed its work. No prices were given in the announcement, but it was understood that the total would be well over $60,000,000 and that contracts for motors would total millions more.

It was the presence of a French observer, in an American-made plane which crashed, that touched off the recent uproar about the administration's foreign policy. It was disclosed that administration officials had lent hearty assistance to France in her effort to increase her lagging air strength by purchases from private American fac-

The embassy announced that HOUSE TAKES UP the orders for 500 planes were divided among the following American firms: Douglas, Los Angeles; Curtiss, Buffalo, N. Y.; Glenn Martin, Baltimore, and North American Aviation Corporation.

Has Own Ideas. And, of course, he sees this novel—this story—this swell pageant of the Old South and the death of an empire and an erain his own way. He's thinking of the box office, too, of course—he has to. But he has his ideas from an artistic point of view. For that matter you'd not accuse Cukor of never having heard of the little windows with the oval openings where millions chink in their quarters and halves all over the country.

So they're even on that point. It isn't commercialism, this time, folks. It's art! It's a matter of approach, of how two different people can work together so many years and still find themselves as far apart as the poles on certain matters. (Maybe some of you-all are married. Well, nobody needs to tell you then how big arguments can grow out of small things.) Even so, it has been a long tough grind.

First the novel was bought. Then for two years there was the headache—(headache, did we say? toothache-earache-tic doloreau-spinal meningitis!)-over who should play Rhett and Scarlett. The fans wanted Gable, of course, for Rhett. Metro had Gable and wouldn't turn him loose for this thing unless Selznick let the house select committee on orit release the picture. Dave waited ganization by Speaker William B. a year, and gnashed his teeth over that one, before he gave in, friends-got under way. Script Trouble. It was wonderful. But—well, you know. A new rumor. The script wasn't ready. The very truth is that three days before shooting was to start there were pages of script ready. That, too, is quite a story.

Playwright Sidney Howard had been hired for six months at $5,000 a week to transform this none too slim book into a workable set of sheets for movie pur-poses. Special to THE CONSTITUTION. AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 14.-The legend of Forrest Turner as a notorious "bad man" collapsed here today when he drew a word picture of himself as a "nice boy."

Spectators Surprised. Turner's own estimate of himself came as a shock and a sur-prise to spectators in the courtroom who have come to regard as Georgia's public enemy number one, when he burst the bubble of his reputation.

As a result, the trial, which was expected to be sensational and and possibly lead to the electric chair, skidded into anti-climax. The far-famed "bad" man received an added 10 to 15 years to the 79-year sentence he was serving when he escaped from Tattnall prison last November.

Turner was convicted in both Fulton and Tattnall counties for kidnaping, armed robbery and larceny, prior to his trial here today.

Turner's name leaped into headlines and ran in columns of newspaper type when, among other exoits, according to police, he bold ly liberated five long-terms early in January from the Forsyth county camp at Cumming.

Following that exploit, authorities all over the state were on the alert for him, and his presence was reported in many Georgia cities and towns. His name was linked by police with many robberies and holdups.

Following his capture about two weeks ago, police here declared they would make every effort to forge links of evidence which would make possible a death sentence for armed robbery, a capital offense in this state. Thus the trial was awaited eagerly. But instead of the chair, Turner will start being a "model prisoner" at Tattnall in the morn

All of the five men he liberated from the Cumming camp have been subsequently jailed.

McGeachy officiated uniforms, all with a touch of mourning black. Those without uniforms, as is the custom on the continent, wore formal evening attire. The women wore black gowns and veils. In contrast to the 500,000 or more who had crowded the basilica to pass the bier of the Pontiff during the last three days, those at the ceremony, mostly in the chancel or about the central altar, left vast spaces of Christendom's greatest church unoccupied. Admission was by invitation only. (Technically St. Peter's is basilica-a word derived from the Greek and signifying a kingly and secondarily, a beautiful hall. St. Peter's is often referred to, even in the church itself, as a cathedral -the chief church of a diocese in which the bishop has his throne.)

Incense Burned. A procession of prelates, nobles, Swiss guardsmen, chamberlains and chanting choristers first moved slowly to the chapel of the sacrament, where Pius XI had lain since Saturday. Incense was burned and the funeral litter was raised from its red dais and carried to the altar of the chair. Lines of flickering candles on each side lighted the ashen features of the Pontiff.

The cardinals wore purple soutanes and birettas and red skull caps. Pius XI was placed before the symbolic chair of St. Peter at the extreme end of the nave. Only here was the basilica really bright The chair and the gilded sunburst above it were dazzling from candles and electric lights.

Here white silk was placed over the face and hands of the pontiff. The body was sealed in the triple casket with the text of the eulogy and copies of medals struck during his pontificate. Here also the eulogy was read in Latin by Monsignor Antonio Bacci, secretary of the briefs.

Beats of the big bell above the basilica echoed through the archways. A crude wooden frame, equipped with heavy ropes and pulleys, was used to lower the casket to a funeral carriage on the floor of the grottoes. With the same rhythmic slow-ness that had marked the whole ceremony it descended into the crypt—built over the spot in the ena of Nero's circus where Peter the apostle was said to have suf-

Declares National Defense Requires More Attention

The United States is short in the equipment of modern warfare. of mortgage notes which assessors General Stanley D. Embick, commander of the fourth corps area said yesterday. So short, in fact, he said, that we haven't enough to adequately equip even an initial protective force for the country. "We have developed and adopt-ed new weapons," he continued, "but haven't had the money to produce them in adequate quan-tities."

Speaking in his office in the Federal building as Georgia's observance of National Defense Week, sponsored by the Reserve Officers' Association, got under way, General Embick called our present national defense act adequate, but said again that the army has not been able to keep abreast of the times in the matter of modern equipment.

The history of national defense is as old as man, General Embick said. "Provision for the common defense has preoccupied men's minds since they became capable of rational thought. Provision for the common defense was the major purpose that led men to band themselves into tribes, and then into primitive states. It has been the first objective of every state Even Plato, though striving for the ideal, made it a fundamental motif of his utopian state.

"Our fortunate geographical location has made our comparative neglect of the matter natural. But we have permitted ourselves to place too much confidence in that isolation, at times even decrying the most modest preparations for defense.

General Embick said that it is essential to our national security that we do not fall below the very modest measure of preparedness of men is better qualified to speak on national defense than the Reserve Officers' Association. Their efforts deserve, and I feel sure you will receive the wholehearted and warm support of the patriotic citizens of Atlanta and Georgia."

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 15, 1939. OF DEEPER SIGNIFICANCE

The recent clash between President Roosevelt and Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, over the appointment of a judge for the federal court of the western district of that state, involved principles of far deeper import to the nation than a mere fight over patronage.

It is generally conceded, of course, that the action of the President is a continuation of the famous "purge" policy of 1938. At that time he attempted to defeat, at the polls in the various states, certain senators and representatives he branded as not entirely friendly to the "New Deal" and the policies of the administration. How the attempted purge failed in Maryland, South Carolina, Georgia and other states is recent history.

Now, in making appointments without consulting the senators of the states affected, the President is believed to be continuing the purge by attempting to weaken the political strength of the senators he does not consider friendly to

The constitution provides the President shall fill such offices by appointment, "with the advice and approval of the senate." In practice, for more than a century, the senate has refused to confirm appointments whenever the senators from the state concerned have voiced disapproval. This regardless of the fitness of the nominee under consideration.

The President, following the refusal of the senate to confirm Judge Roberts for the Virginia appointment, declared the constitution never intended the senate should usurp the appointive powers of the executive.

But there can be little doubt the founders of the nation, the writers of the constitution. intended that the senate should act as a check against too great appointive power in the hands of one man, whoever he might be, who occupied the White House.

For it canont be gainsaid that, if one man, even though President, had the unrestricted right of appointment to the judiciary he would wield a power too great. With such a power, he could absolutely control the judicial functions of the courts and, thereby, exercise a dictatorship over the rights of all the people, if he

It is not imagined, for one moment, that the present incumbent of the White House has any ambitions looking toward dictatorship. But complete control over the judiciary is dangerous power for the hand of any one man, under a democratic form of government.

POOR WORLD-MORE BOYS

A Jewish exile from Germany, intent upon refuting by scientific study a condition which the Nazi regime blamed upon his race, has discovered that, for the first time in history, a surplus of boys is being piled up.

Three strange factors have combined to produce this unbalance between the sexes, according to Dr. Heinrich Rosenhaupt, former director of the city health service of Mainz, in an analysis published in the current issue of Scientific Monthly, journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The reasons: Mass marriage, inadequate nutrition of mothers and, seemingly contradictory, better child welfare efforts.

Normally about 106 boys are born for every 100 girls, but the male baby being much more delicate, has less chance to live beyond infancy. Consequently, girls have outnumbered boys after the first year.

The present unbalance arose from the combination of the three determining and controlling factors in World War and after years. Mass marriages as the boys left for the training camps brought a huge number of first births within the period of a comparatively few years. First babies are considerably more likely to be boys than girls. Food then was scarce, and malnutrition of mothers widespread. This operated to produce more boy babies. Then since manpower was paramount, these boy babies were given better attention than had heretofore been the case. Depressions since then have operated to produce malnutrition in families and better child care through welfare services. Consequently, more live, and future generations may see the girls getting a break for the first time in all these years.

And a Jewish scientist has confounded the false prophets.

For reprieving a condemned man to prolong his suffering, Pappy O'Daniel, of Texas, is showered with verbal rocks. Or it may be those biscuits, returning after many days.

Some of the admirers think the outstanding eloquence of the day is to be found in a Garner

OSCAR NEWTON

The death of Oscar Newton, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, takes away not only the top ranking banker of the Sixth Federal Reserve District, but ends the career of a man distinguished both for his exhaustive knowledge of national and world finance and for his warm personal values and friendship for all sorts and conditions of people.

Few bankers possessed the knowledge and the understanding of world finance and currencies as did Oscar Newton. Few were more conversant with the fiscal problems of this nation, with particular reference to the needs and the opportunities of the southeast.

At the same time there have been few men in high office who were always so understandingly cordial and friendly with all with whom they came in contact, whether capitalists, savants, high executives or humble workers in the minor roles of life. To all he was a friend and today his death has brought sorrow to thousands who knew him best as a kindly man.

In Washington President Newton was highly regarded, not only at the Federal Reserve Bank and at the Treasury, but among officials of all types. He was a man whose advice was eagerly sought by everyone. As a member of the open market committee of the entire Federal Reserve System he had won high honor and wide ac-

A native of Mississippi, he had made himself a powerful civic asset to Atlanta. His passing will long be mourned by all who knew him and the service he rendered to the southeast will stand as a great memorial to the capacity of a truly great man.

MR. JUSTICE BRANDEIS

At 82, Louis D. Brandeis has stepped from the bench of the United States supreme court. In a sense, his work is done. In the wider sense, he has opened a new vista of service to the American people in these, his closing years. More than most figures in the history of the United States he exemplifies the intelligent reasoning that has safely guided the nation through flaming crises to the social development assuring the maintenance of democracy.

When it is said that his work is done, one must turn back time to the years before the World War, when Wilson fought his battle for the new freedom; when this shock-haired lawyer molded from a maze of theory and figures and statistics the practical driving force for the Wilsonian philosophy. From that day to this he has had the capacity to ignore private and personal interest to center his vision on the public good. His torch has been the essential truth that democracy is not merely a question of majority rule, but of freedom of discussion. debate and compromise: in contradistinction to the plaint of the politician that a "mandate from the people" carries carte blanche permission to proceed without waiting for the processes of democracy to function in the argument of legislative halls. To him, law is not an abstract thing, set apart, but an integral factor rooted throughout the entire social and economic being of the nation.

In the larger sense, much remains to be done by this keen and vibrant mind. His people, the Jews, suffer under the heel of rampant nationalism. His people, the Americans, struggle to clear away the maze of maladjustment in the economic order, with the maldistribution of goods under which many are hungry and naked in the midst of plenty, with the seeming paradox of overproduction in the evident face of underconsumption. To these problems of democracy he has always turned his thought. cutting through to social disease as a surgeon's scalpel to physical disease.

It cannot be that he has resigned from the supreme court into retirement. His resignation will permit him to lift his voice once again, to turn again to the public problems of democracy. He has replaced the shackles of his judicial robe with the freedom of the private citizen. an elder statesman. Branded once as a dangerous radical, Justice Brandeis today is the exemplification of the American method, of American democracy.

SPAIN A TRADING POINT?

The Memphis Commercial Appeal.) With a Nazi-Fascist victory coming nearer by in Spain, it is presumed on all sides that Great Britain and France will have to seek a showdown on the matter of who is to rule Spain henceforth. Just as a provocation for speculation, we may suggest the chance that Italy and Gerwill use their position in Spain as a trading point, their hope being to obtain concessions and advantages of one sort and another elsewhere.

Italy's bright young man, Virginio Gayda, journalistic mouthpiece for Mussolini who flies Il Duce's trial balloons for him many times, hints that Italian volunteers will remain in Spain until the Fascists gain a political as well as a physical victory. Hitler talks largely of the return of colonies in Africa that he cannot want particularly, and hints Germany will back any Italian move in Spain. On the other hand, every reasonable consideration points to the conclusion that Germany really wants to drive on toward the east in Europe and wants loans and economic benefits. It is not out of the question that Mussolini and Hitler are or the question that Mussolini and Hitler are gambling on their nuisance value by talking of one thing and thinking of another. Their strategy all along has involved application of the idea that they can't shoot you for trying.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NEW PURGE ATTACK WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.-The cura simple meaning. Politically, the President is still backing his New Dealers against the orthodox Democrats, just as he did in the purge. The latest and most significant evidence to this effect is the appointment of John T. Cahill to be federal district attorney in Bluntly speaking, the Cahill appointment has two purposes. The first is to give the New Dealers a man of their own in New York state politics. Last year the effort to run Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson for governor had the same object. Now the New Dealers are beginning over again, more modestly. The federal district attorneyship in New York is a tremendously important job, capable of being dramatized as District Attorney Dewey's job has been dramatized. Cahill is an able man, a hard worker and an ardent New Dealer. The New Dealers hope that he will make a big name

As for the appointment's second purpose, it is to blanket Thomas E. Dewey. The meteoric career of the youthful Dewey has given peculiar pain to the New Dealers, who like to think of themselves as having a monopoly on promising youth. Except for murders, there is scarcely any kind of case in Dewey's province as New York district attorney which is not also in the province of Cahill as federal district attorney. Some exciting case-grabbing is to be antici-

CORCORAN'S MAN Again, bluntly speaking, Cahill is the nominee of Thomas G. Corcoran, who is, after Harry L. Hopkins, the key man in the New Dealers' group. The New Dealers began to grieve over Dewey's exploits about a year ago, when Dewey spectacularly entered the Whitney case. At that time, the federal district attorney in New York was Lamar Hardy, a colorless and rather shambling figure. The President was urged to replace him with a more effective man. The controversy over keeping or replacing Hardy continued in termittently until Hardy's recent resignation. At one point, there was considerable sentiment among the New Dealers for Tom Corcoran's taking the job himself. It was thought that, as the President's second term was running out, the time had come for the New Deal leaders to make names for themselves as public officials, and thus to achieve independent political importance, which they lack as presidential advisers. But, although he might have had the job for the asking, Corocran preferred to stay on in Washington.

When Hardy's resignation was finally presented, however, the problem took on a new aspect. The New Dealers were determined that he should be replaced with a man of their own. Cahill was chosen for obvious reasons. The son of a New York policeman, he worked his way through Columbia, and went to Harvard Law School, where he became a close friend of Corcoran. After leaving law school, he was again associated with Corcoran in the famous office of Cotton. Franklin, Wright & Gordon. Then he served for a time as an assistant of New York state's attorney general, John J. Bennett. And finally he returned as a partner to the Cotton, Franklin successor firm, with which Corcoran has always maintained a friendly connection.

TAMING WALL STREET Although he has always maintained the outward semblance of a good party man, Cahill's appointment is reported to have been opported by Postmaster General James A. Farley and the New York Democratic organizations. At any rate, there can be no question about his appointment's nature. Significantly enough, besides the backing of the established New Dealers, he also enjoyed strong support from Attorney General Frank Murphy, who is emerging as one of the New Dealers' closest and most faithful allies. The entire financial district is within Cahill's province. He may be expected to bedevil Wall Street with very special enthusiasm, for one of the New Dealers' hopes is to build up a contrast between Dewey, the proscutor of common criminals, and a competitor who 'goes after the big fellows." Meanwhile, Cahill is also likely to do a good job, for his ability and honesty are unquestioned. And someone has long been needed to do a good job with the federal district attorneyship in New York. #### ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

THE FINEST BASS SINGER It wasn't so very long ago that the city turned out in a tumultuous and steamy welcome for a young man who had won the four

He looked drawn and tired, did Bobby Jones back in 1930 as he rode through the streets that day in the parade of welcome. His old man, Big Bob Jones, looked about as tired.

Monday night there was a pleasant dinner at the Piedmont Driving Club at which this same young man of 1930 was presented with a certificate proclaiming him the city's outstanding citizen for

He had won it, not on the golf course, but in citizenship. He took hold of a Community Chest campaign which had been suffering from anemia for several years and gave it a blood transfusion. I got to thinking about Big Bob Jones. He had seen his son win all the fame and honor there was to win in golf. And then there he was Monday night seeing him named the city's outstanding

There is just one thing about the Joneses, father and son. The son has won most of the golf honors. I do think that Jones, Sr., has a few small cups here and there. But Bobby Jones can't sing Big Bob Jones is a finer bass singer than the Metropolitan bass. ever had. There were quite a few distinguished people at the dinner, some of the city's leading divines, attorneys, bankers, and so on. And also the current British amateur golf champion, Mr. Charles Yates. There was some singing. Mr. Yates rendered his favorite, "A Wee Doch and Doris." The whole crowd sang "Old Black Joe," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and then Big Bob Jones, by unanimous demand, sang "Old Man River."

It was a very excellent evening for a young man who, as a sports competitor, never did a snide thing and never once broke the rules of the game. But he still can't sing bass as can his old man.

ABOUT HIS TOWN Bobby Jones learned something about his town and what makes it go around.

Until he got into the Community Chest campaign he thought all there was to the job was sending out a few callers and banking the checks which followed the calls.

He learned of the tremendous inertia to be broken down. He learned of the unusual ignorance that exists about conditions and the needs of the Community Chest. He, himself, had to learn. He learned that one is likely to encounter selfishness and thoughtless ness in high places and in unexpected places. You might call the Community Chest campaign the civic education of Bobby Jones. Because he knows what a big city contains. He knows its problems and its tragedies and its hopes. He knows that a few people pull the wagon, so to speak.

He never will, of course, but I wish he'd go into politics. He'd enjoy it for a while, being a blunt sort of person.

AS TO POLITICS While on the subject of politics, I wonder if those present recall the chief campaign slogan of all candidates, not only in the past campaigns for governor and senator, but also those of two years before? Old age pensions.

And now, as economy becomes the watchword, the school teachers have their lobbies, and so do the other departments. I think that not only proper but, under our system, necessary. They will be taken care of when the legislature at last gets down to this business of taxes. But everyone seems to have forgotten the old people. The legislature has. All the great speeches about old age pensions and aid for the crippled and the blind come rather hollowly down the wind of yesterday. The old people, just like the sick, can't get there to press their side of the case.

Old age pensions are one of the heaviest loads called for under the program.

FORWARD MARCH It is obvious the administration has said, "Forward March" to the economy committee. The economists already are hearing the outraged shrieks of those upon whom the political ax has fallen. There will be more. And unless all signs fail, the plan of the Governor will be to say nothing at all in a very loud voice. He told the legislature to show where savings could be made and then to make them. The boys are doing it. They are going ahead saving a $1,200 salary here. And a $1,400 one here. They will cut off $40,000 here and perhaps even $400,000 in another spot. They already have reduced the school appropriation. It means fewer libraries. When they will have done, they will have shown where perhaps $1,000,000 can be saved. That is important money. It ought to be

ved. No one denies it. Not a soul.
But, having saved that much, there still will be needed about $7,000,000 if they are to go ahead with the plans for the schools, the health program and for the forgotten people—those eligible for

That will be a difficult day. Meanwhile the voices of those who have been liquidated in the "economy" drive will be loud in the land. Their relatives will be heard in lamentations and mourning. A few will beat their breasts and swear revenge

Whereas a dictator can give orders and get them executed omptly without argument, the leaders of a democracy, made wise and efficient plans, must modify and change them to meet the objections of fellow lawmakers who do not understand.

The result is that scarcely anything is done as well as we know w to do it. All' progress must wait until the slowest catch up. Even our battleships, on which our very life may depend, are not as effective as our experts know how to make them. They are compromises. And the fault is ours. we expect our elected officials to manage the country efficiently without bothering us, so we take it for granted that army and navy men are somehow contriving to make the nation safe. When trouble comes and we learn that our country isn't prepared to meet it, we arise in panic wrath and demand head. It would do no good to remind us that we alone are to blame, We wouldn't believe it, anyway, for we scarcely realize how a de mocracy works.

ir congressmen are supposed to be statesmen, thinking always of the nation's welfare, but their first concern is to please the voters back home—that is, to keep their jobs. To do this, they must interest themselves in things that interest the voters. They are so busy running errands, they seldom have time to study the long and complicated bills upon which they must vote. Many a law is passed by men who have little idea what they voted for. In ordinary times, the voters back home feel no interest in national defense. It seems a waste of tax money. So congressmen disregard the navy's plea for more money, and the result is that we have few naval bases. naval base is a fortified filling station and repair shop. If long-haul trucks had no filling stations, they would have to enlarge their fuel tanks and thus reduce their pay load. # LOVE COMES LAST

Laura, Hiding Her Heart-Break, Pretends Gaiety for Nina's Sake

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Life has been very kind to her

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Life has been very kind to her, Laura Wiley thinks, especially the last two years since Andy Cooper came into it. She likes her work as announcer at BRY and her salary, with her earnings from fiction writing, have enabled her to take care of her younger sister, Nina, now 21, who is rebellious because heart trouble bars her from many of the activities of boys and girls of her age. So Laura is disturbed when Andy tells her that Bartley Ford, top-rank New York advertising man, wants to take over the Cooper agency in Newbury and make Andy an important executive. She does not want to leave Newbury and with Andy gone her whole existence would be changed. She believes also that Andy would be doing himself an injustice as his agency is doing well and he would bury his identity in a large organization. She tells him this when they are driving out to the lake with Nina. As they talk on the shore, Nina swims out to a float, there is a cry for help and Andy reaches her almost as soon as a lifeguard. He and Laura hurry her home and to bed, badly worried because of her heart, but she is little the worse for her experience. As Laura is preparing lunch, Nina tells Andy she suddenly wanted to keep on living as he carried her ashore in his arms. He thinks she is suffering from shock but when he leaves she tells Laura she loves Andy. Laura thinks it is only a passing fancy. Andy arranges a dinner party with Ford, Laura and Nina. Nina goes to Andy's office, throws her arms around his neck and says "I love you!" just as Laura enters.

Majority of Citizens Be-lieve They Would Tackle lieve They Would Tackle Unemployment Problem Better Than New Deal. By DR. GEORGE GALLUP.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion. NEW YORK, Feb. 14.-Important new evidence that the trend of American public opinion today is toward relatively orthodox economic thinking rather than toward the newer economic views of administration leaders is contained in the results of an American Institute of Public Opinion survey dealing with the present state of business. Since 1932 the issue has been whether the ideas of business or the ideas of the New Deal should prevail in the attempt to bring about economic recovery. Demo-cratic leaders have contended that the old orthodox views of businessmen put the country into depression and that the New Deal is bringing it out of depression. Does the public share this view? Do the voters look more to the administration than to big business for help in solving presentday economic problems?

Question Asked. To resolve this issue the American Institute put the following question to a cross-section of voters in every state:

"Do you think that, to create new jobs and reduce unemployment, it would be better to follow the ideas of big businessmen or the ideas of the Roosevelt administration?

Taft Declares Credit Facilities Used To Bolster Foreign Policies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 .- (AP)-After hearing a Republican complain that government credit facilities are being used to impletion today on a proposal to continue the export-import bank for two years.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, told the committee that the bank's recent loans to China and Haiti were not a matter of banking or credit but a matter of foreign pol-

He urged that the bank's lending authority be limited to $100,-000,000. He opposed a $125,000,-000 limit because, he said, the bank may use its funds "to finance a European war without congress knowing anything about

Chairman Wagner, Democrat, New York, of the banking com-mittee, commented that $25,000,-000 wouldn't go far toward financing a war. Coupled with the administration proposal to continue bank operations was legislation to extend for two years the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

The committee approved con-tinuance of the RFC until June 30, 1941, but delayed action on the bank and the commodity agency until next Tuesday. Taft said he opposed continu-ing the commodity corporation "because it will enable it to ac-democratic form of government."

"It is my opinion," he asserted, "that the mayor is abusing his veto powers in attempting to keep the people of Hapeville from expressing their opinion on this subect. I am opposed to a 'one-man form of government and feel that we should abide by the wishes of the majority. Mayor Cathy's veto message cited four principal reasons for his stand. These were (1) the Hapeville city charter forbids the sale of liquor; (2) no petition for a referendum has been presented;

(3) council is not authorized to spend money for such a vote, and (4) the majority of the people of Hapeville are opposed to licensing the sale of liquor.

"We have primarily a residen-tial city with many children and young people," the mayor wrote.
"The influence of the sale of iquor cannot be stated in words. I, therefore, cannot consent to the pproval of this measure and for that reason it receives my veto."

Vote Regulations. Under the new division of the ity, one councilman is to be elected from each of the four wards and one from the city at large. Preparations for putting the or-dinance into effect will be made at once.

The change in voting regulations which will be included with the wet-dry vote would make it possible for citizens of Hapeville to vote in city elections without being forced to comply with state rules requiring registration at the Fulton county courthouse about seven months before such elections are held.

COBB SLIDES IN BASEBALL'S GREATEST PICTURE

Of course he isn't, but if it were true that Tyrus Raymond last one for the Crimson Tide this Cobb, the Georgia Peach, were sharpening his spikes again, the accompanying picture would serve as food for thought.

And if you happened to be the coast writer Cobb is supposed to be mad at because of the thing he wrote about Cobb supposedly begging for an assistant coach's job in baseball at Stanford, the first thought would be to put in an order for a suit

There never has been a greater action picture taken in baseball. The name of the photographer has been lost in the shuffle since the picture was snapped in 1909, but an effort really should be made to learn his identity and give him and the picture a proper place in Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.

The picture shows Cobb as a stripling just out of the rookie class sliding into third base under Jimmy Austin. The greatest base runner of all time, although he wasn't nearly the fastest, Cobb's unvarying motto was to get to the base-regardless.

He was a master of the hook and roll slide and often went flying into a base with his razor-sharp spikes flashing in the sun and the expression (as above) of a wolf with fangs bared

As in the case of Austin, the basemen stood ready at all times with dancing feet to keep from getting their pants or stockings ripped off.

Baseball never has produced a player since Cobb who was so alert to opportunity on the base paths. It was nothing for Cobb to go from first to third on, say, a bunt. This ability is accredited largely to the reason that he was thinking two jumps ahead of the opposition, but the fact that the basemen had a wholesome regard for his flying spikes and desire to get there safe probably had something to do with it, too.

Anyway, it probably is just as well it's all in fun that Cobb, while he may be peeved a little at the story, likely is sharpening nothing more potent than his golf spikes. Even so, I imagine he could put some fancy work on a portion of epidermis using them.

Cobb still is paying the price of fame—and speaking of paying, it is not unreasonable to assume that if he really wanted to lend a hand in coaching the baseball team at Stanford, he could pay for the privilege.

I imagine if Cobb had said, "I am still interested in seeing youngsters develop in baseball and here's a few grand for the maintenance of the athletic program, why, those in command at Leland Standford Jr. Univer--the full name for the institution-doubtless would be delighted to have him put in an appearance on the college ball fields at his pleasure.

Cobb, incidentally, recommended Sam Chapman, the University of California star, to the Athletics, and Chapman promises to be a star of the first water, whatever that is.

NO RACKET HERE, MISTER.

The question is being raised, here and there, as to whether the baseball schools are a racket. It is even said that Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis is keeping an eye peeled on some Schools at which the students pay their major or ex-major league teachers to learn the game might bear scrutiny, inasmuch as most of the great stars of the game learned their diamond trade in the institution of hard going, and largely accredit their success to natural ability and confidence.

But they may do some good. Hidden talent conceivably can be discovered if the professors are looking for it. And it is

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—(P)—Seabiscuit, top favorite to win the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, pulled up lame today after being beaten in his 1939 debut by Today.

Owner Charles S. Howard hurried to the barn to look after his stake champion, but said it would be some time before the extent of the injuries were known.

The mighty 'Biscuit, beaten by two and a quarter lengths by To-day, with Marica third in the Eleven Georgia Tech men will three-horse race, came to a stop leave this morning for their game after finishing the one-mile race. Jockey Georgie Woolf dismounted and led the horse back to the grandstand.

The race was Seabiscuit's first start since he defeated War Admiral at Pimlico last November 1.

It was a day of hard luck for Howard. In the race before Seabiscuit's appearance, Howard's Kayak II was beaten, exploding the supposed invincibility of the horse which had been rated by dangerous rival in the $100.000 race March 4.

Kayak II ran third to Bottle Top and Patty Cake.

Grave fears were expressed that Seabiscuit might not race again. The current leading money winner in racing went in today's race with earnings of $340,000 him, and Howard had long hoped to surpass $376,744, the all-time money

Announcement Is Made Today of Watson-Blick Wedding Plans

Ceremony To Take Place March 11 Decatur Club At Peachtree Christian Church

By Sally Forth.

A RRAYED in lustrous white satin and filmy tulle, Anna Belle Watson will become the bride of John Blick Jr. at a 5:30 o'clock afternoon ceremony on March 11 with the Peachtree Christian church forming the setting for the beautiful occasion.

Dr. Robert W. Burns will officiate and Mrs. Victor Clark, organist, will present a program of nuptial music. The bride will enter with her father, James Anderson Watson, by whom she will be given in mar-

Betty Jane Watson, Anna Belle's sub-deb sister, is all "a-flutter" over her selection as maid of honor. The young belle will make her first appearance as a wedding attendant in the March nuptials.

Mrs. Edward Dodd, of Gainesville, the former Miriam Croft, of this city, is numbered among those chosen to attend the bride-elect. You recall that Anna Belle was a bridesmaid in Miriam's wedding last year, which was also solemnized at the Peachtree Christian church. Anna Belle has chosen as her other bridesmaids Jane Blick, sister of the groom-elect; Nina Fuller and Elizabeth Blackshear.

Little Louise and Jimmy Watson, cousins of the bride-elect, will appear as flower girl and ring bearer. They are the chil-dren of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M.

For his groomsmen Duke, as John is called by his intimates, has chosen Roy T. Fricks, Asa Warren Candler, Littleton Little, Charles Clements, of Buena Vista; Jack Eastland, of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. Warren S. Dorough.

The wedding guests will be shown to their pews by Dr. Har-old P. McDonald, R. E. Lee Field, Jesse Draper and James H. Yeatman, of Dallas, Texas., who have been named ushers for the important event.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. James Watson, parents of the bride-elect, will entertain at an informal reception at their home on Rumson road. Guests will be limited to members of the wedding party, the immediate families, and out-of-town guests.

A round of prenuptial parties has been planned in compliment to the blond bride-elect, the first to be a bridge-supper at which Mrs. Steven Barnum will enter-tain on February 17 at her home on 15th street.

On February 22, Mary Frances Yates will be hostess at a luncheon at her home in East Lake honoring Anna Belle. Mrs. Edward Dodd will enter-tain at a bridge-luncheon on February 23 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Croft, on Kingsboro road. Anna Belle will again be central figure at the luncheon to be given by Nina Fuller, the date to be announced later. A delightful evening party is being planned by Jacquelin How-ard and her mother, Mrs. Wil-liam Schley Howard, in compliment to the bride-elect and her fiance, the affair to take place on February 25 at the home of the hostess on College avenue. the evening of March 4 Flizabeth Blackshear will entertain for Anna Belle and John at her home on Fifteenth street, and on March 8 Mrs. Clyde Watson will fete the young couple. TIME turned back 10 years last I evening when a group of prominent Atlantans donned dress styles of 1929 to celebrate the tenth wedding anniversary of John and Mary Harvey Ottley. In accordance with the request of the hosts, the guests were asked to attend last evening's party wearing models which were in style at the time of their marriage. The ceremony, Sally recalls, was an outstanding social event of the season and took place at the Second Baptist church on St. Valentine's Day in Since tin is the symbol of the tenth anniversary, the centerpiece of the table was formed of tin kitchen utensils arranged and dis-guised to form a floral arrangement. Members of the Harvey-Ottley wedding party and a num-ber of the hosts' other close friends were invited for the celebration. Among the former group were Mary Shewmaker, of Memphis, Tenn.; Sara Sutherland, now of Americus, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Caldwell, of Miami, Fla., all of whom came to Atlanta for the event.

Invitations to the party issued last week by the hosts were in the form of the following rhyme, penned by the hostess:

"Listen, my children, and you shall hear How the Ottleys have been wed for 10 long years. Having accomplished this remarkable feat, We want you to come and drink and eat,

Dressed in the fashion of '29 (remember bell bottom and no waistline?)
Search through your attic, steal, borrow or beg,
But wear the finery that exposes the leg.
Our house is the place, February 14 is the date.
Eight is the time to help us celebrate."

THE 1939 edition of the Sa-1 cred Heart school annual, Sacre Coeur, is in danger of going on the rocks; that is, unless frends of the 27 members of the senior class rally to their aid and attend their benefit bridge party to be held at Davison-Paxon's at 3 o'clock on Saturday. You see, the Sacre Coeur only made its debut last year, and met with phenomenal success, but last year's class was almost twice as large as the present one. And, in addition, the vaulting ambition of the '38-'39 seniors led them to undertake the publication of a monthly paper, a literary feat which has placed a check on the activities for the annual. The mothers of the seniors have planned the benefit purely as a voluntary aid, and unless the party is a success, plans for the annual will be canceled. For the proceeds will be used to fi-nance the 1939 edition of Sacre Coeur. Tickets for the party may may be obtained by calling Mrs. A. L. Byrnes at Cherokee 3334, Miss O. H. WASHINGTON-One youngster was badly disappointed last night. Several weeks ago Mr. Conrad Reid wrote, saying that his daughter was learning to sing, and that it would be a great boost to her ambition if she could occasionally sing for someone outside her family group. The letter was such a nice letter that the President and I decided we would like to hear the child. But a cold kept the President in bed last night, and so I heard her alone. She is a charming looking girl of 18 with a sweet and, as yet, untrained voice. We had a pleasant time together, and Mr. Reid left a poem for my husband which he after-

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a difficult breathing. Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Lecture on Virginia Gardens and Homes To Be Given Here

An illustrated lecture on Williamsburg, Va., will be presented by Dr. John May, of Cohassett, Mass., on February 20 at 3 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Iris Garden Club. The lecture will be given in the ballroom of the Piedmont Driving Club and will include the showing of historic homes and gardens of Virginia in

The public is invited to attend and tickets may be secured from members of the Irish Garden Club or at the door.
Mrs. D. C. Shepherd is president of the Irish Garden Club, and Mrs. W. C. Wardlaw is chairman of this event. Dr. May has lectured before many garden clubs, as well as other organizations in this country. In his own words he says: "I have been most widely known perhaps as an ornithologist, having been director of ornithology of the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, author of "The Hawks of North America," collaborator in "The Birds of Massachusetts and Other New England States." I am a member of the American Ornithologist Union, director of the Massachusetts Audubon So-ciety, a trustee of the National Parks Association, former presi-Parks Association, former president of the Appalachian Mountain Club and various other things. The Virginia lecture was the outcome of repeated visits to that at 8 o'clock tonight.

was off .1 of a point at 50.2. Despite continuance of a fairly good brand of business news, traders came back from their lengthy holiday with a notable lack of buying ardor. Brokers thought international affairs again were a market handicap.

Steels stiffened for a time, after an early slide, when this week's mill operations jumped 1.4 points to 54 8 per cent of capacity, a new high for the year and a figure better than expected. United States Steel and Bethlehem, however, fell back at the last.

Demand for N. Y. Traction Issues, However, Props

Droopy Market. Daily Bond Averages.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14-(P)-A' lively demand for local traction issues was the main prop for a droopy bond market today. Hopes the state legislature would cut through the recent welter of proposals and counter proposals to a plan of decisive action for unification of the city's railways were seen by bond analysts as the main factor in the buying.

Among the most active issues, Third Avenue adjustment 5s ran up 1-2 to 12 1-8 and BrooklynManhattan Transit 4 1-2s added 2 1-4 at 73 3-4. Interboro Rapid Transit loans also changed hands in substantial volume at advances of a point or so. Traders were hesitant in other sections of the market as they weighed long-range business prospects, especially with reference to 1939 needs for new capital.

A syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers was high bidder, at $106.-

763 for 3 3-8 per cent $12,000,000 refunding issue of Cincinnati Union Terminal Company.

United States Treasuries, with a few exceptions, gained 1-32nd to 3-32nds point. Foreign governmentals were uneven, with Latin-American issues continuing the upward trend shown in recent trad-

Transactions totaled $5,130,600 face value compared to $4,869,500

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(P)— Towner Phelan, assistant vice president of the St. Louis, Mo., Union Trust Company, asserted today that newspaper advertising should constitute the backone of a Rain Wednesday followed by parttrust institution advertising pro-

Speaking before the Midwinter Trust conference of the American Bankers' Association, he said: 'Newspaper advertising will reach the entire public; it will tend to build and maintain the background of public confidence which is the foundation of trust business; it will contribute to favorable public opinion, which is our only protection against adverse legisla-tion; it will inform the public about trust service and will do much to dispel ignorance, remove prejudice, correct misinformation and educate the public to the advantages of trust service. "We must not limit our advertising merely to those people who are prospects for trust service, but must advertise to the entire pub-

Private Corporation Planned To Help Pay $300,000,-000 Cost.

LONDON, Feb. 14 .- (AP)-The intergovernmental committee on refugees provisionally accepted a German plan today for removing Other 1938 dividends were 25 Jews from Germany and authoriz-cents in September and 50 cents ed establishment of a private international settlement corporation to help pay the $300,000,000 cost. The committee notified Germany it "is, using and will use its best endeavors to develop opportunities within the next five years for permanent settlement of involun-tary emigrants from Germany within the limit of laws and practices of the member governments." Thirty-two nations are represented in the international mittee which was set up last July at Evian-les-Bains, France.

Sir Herbert Emerson accepted his new appointment to direct the committee's work and agreed to co-ordinate his new duties with those of his other office, League high commissioner for refugees. He replaced George Rublee, of the United States who resigned yester-day after submitting the German

Robert T. Pell, also of the United States, was appointed vice di-rector with authority to act for Emerson in the director's absence.
